Mission Statement or Philosophy: The two-fold mission of Carolina Christian Academy is to equip students with the knowledge, skills, values, and ethics to excel in life, especially in the areas of college, family, church, society and vocation; and to prepare an army of young Christian patriots who will exemplify, passionately advocate and intelligently defend the Biblical worldview thereby solving our nation's problems rather than adding to them.

School History: In the mid-1990's the city of Lancaster had no private or Christian school. L. S. Connor, a medical doctor, Huey A. Mills, pastor, and Fellowship Bible Church, had a vision to open a Christian school in Lancaster. This vision was presented to more than twenty-five area pastors, the sheriff, mayor, professional and business individuals. The response was nothing short of incredible. Excitement rippled all through the community and area churches. Even though the school would not open until September of 1996, enrollment for the new school began in February of 1996. Within four days, over seventy-five signed up and within one week over one hundred and twenty-five. It quickly became apparent that the demand for Christian education in Lancaster exceeded what Fellowship Bible Church (the church that committed to becoming the school's sponsor) was able to provide. Three thousand five hundred dollars was contributed for each of more than ten classrooms to purchase everything the classrooms would need. A funeral home gave ten thousand dollars to equip the computer lab. Wachovia gave a large grant to equip the kitchen and dining area. Later a medical doctor gave $12,000 to equip a science lab, and the Coke Company gave a grant of $100,000 to complete the junior and senior high wing. The school opened in 1996 with 225 students. Enrollment peaked in 1999-2000 at around 400.
