Mission Statement or Philosophy: The mission of Southside Christian School is to serve as partners with Christian parents in providing an excellent education consistent with biblical truth. SCS is a coeducational, independent Christian school that offers a rigorous college preparatory education that emphasizes the intellectual, physical, and spiritual development of students. SCS is committed to cultivating a biblical worldview within students.

School History: Southside Christian School employs over 150 staff members and operates with a budget of more than $8 million. SCS currently serves over 1000 students from 18 months through Grade 12. The vision for Southside Christian School began with the call of a new pastor at Southside Baptist Church (now Fellowship Greenville), Dr. Walter Handford, in January 1965. In August 1967, the school began with three teachers and 49 students in kindergarten through Grade 3. During the early 1980s, the school was relocated to the current location. In 1997, SCS students were invited to receive the Order of the Silver Crescent and to attend the State of the State Address where they were honored by Governor David Beasley for their community service as "the inspiration for a new state honor, patterned after the Order of the Palmetto, to recognize extraordinary youth." The Governor went on to say, "These young people represent the best of South Carolina, the South Carolina we've always been, and the South Carolina we should always strive to be. They embody the spirit of the Palmetto State." In 2007, Southside Christian Lower School was awarded the National Blue Ribbon Award. Southside Christian School received accreditation through the Association of Christian Schools International in 1996 and joint accreditation with AdvancED/SACS and ACSI in 2003.
